Quaker Annual Dedicated To Band Director
Brautigam

Honoring students who were outstanding in athletics, scholastic and extra-curricular activities, the annual recognition assembly of Salem High school was held at the school auditorium yesterday. Principal Wilbur J. Springer presided. Included on the program were presentations of the 1936 Quaker annual, school year book, and the yearbook of the graduating class. The copy of the annual, which was distributed among the students Friday, was given to Chester M. Brautigam, band director, to whom the book is dedicated. The gift from the 1936 graduates, a large clock, which will hang in the third floor hallway of the school building, was presented by James Campbell, president of the senior class.

Writes School Song
One of the features of the assembly was the playing of a new song, "The Quakers Drive On," by Charles Fred Drum-major of the band, who wrote both the music and the lyrics. The song will be introduced to the public next fall.

Honor graduates of the 1936 class were introduced during the assembly where Lois Dilworth, Zoa Slutz and Robert Stoffer, these three students tied for first honors with perfect grades for seven semesters of school work.

Springer cited the following seniors for perfect attendance records: Martin Polder, Clyde Whitcomb, Ruth Cornwell, Evelyn Whitcomb, Suzanne Feindert, Bernice Hilliard, Vivienne Kopp, Mildred Kyser and Zoa Slutz. For their work in debate, triangular-shaped, gold pins were presented to Mary Fisher, Merry Haesley, Charlotte Morey, Verna Carpenter, Zoa Slutz, Helen Thompson, Jean Kingsley, Jean McCarthy, Douglas Englehart, Constance Clark and Aquila Solomon.

NEW PATROLMAN AT WORK TODAY

Clarence Wright Sworn In By Mayor Harroff, Assigned Duties

Clarence Wright, 31, of North Edgewood ave., named to the city police department as a patrolman by Safety Director C. E. Donahay yesterday, was sworn in today by Mayor George Harroff in the mayor's office.

The new officer was one of three men certified by the civil service commission, following the recent civil service examination taken by 19 applicants.

Wright went on duty at noon today, the start of a required six-month probationary period.

In order to better familiarize Wright with police work, Chief Ralph Stoffer and Director Donahay placed him on a beat which will be from noon to midnight. In this manner he will work both day and night.

This order will be in effect for approximately two weeks, after which Wright will be assigned regular hours, probably at night.

Patrolman Nerr Gaunt is the other officer on duty during the day in addition to Chief Stoffer.

Patrolmen George Reash and James Hassey cover night beats.

The vacancy on the force was caused by the death of Traffic Officer Edward Piller.

Wright, who has been operating a taxi service in Salem, will sell his business, he said today.

Akron Fire Kills One; Injures Four

AKRON, June 4.—One man was suffocated and four other persons, including two firemen, were injured today when fire broke out in rooming quarters over a market in South Akron.

Firemen found the body of William Daylight, 35, in his room on the second floor.

Fire swept up the corridor on the second floor and firemen brought several persons down ladders to safety.

Seek Early Truce In Pottery Dispute At East Palestine

Seven hundred and fifty employees at the W. S. George Pottery Co.'s two plants in East Palestine, who failed to report for work Tuesday as a result of the discharge of several kilnhands, were expected to return to their benches this week, union officials said today.

Although operations at the No. 1 and No. 2 shops were still suspended today and the situation was described as a "standstill," officials of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters were negotiating with W. Campbell George, head of the company, and an early settlement of the controversy was indicated.

Spokesmen for the union affirmed the report that the trouble was due to the dismissal of the kilnmen, and added that an agreement was expected to be reached "within several days," Mr. George declined to comment on the situation.

The walkout was voted by the kilnmen's local union at a meeting called by the president, Mayor Enoch Faulkner. The latter was reported among the workmen discharged, although it was not confirmed.

Health Board Asks That Weeds Be Cut

Board of Health officials today called upon residents of Salem to keep weeds and tall grass trimmed down in vacant lots and fields. A city ordinance specifies that the weeds must be cut, Sanitary Officer William Roach said.

A crew of city employees was at work today cleaning street sewers and gutters, while another group of men started the annual task of cleaning the sewage beds at the disposal plant, northwest of the city. Service Director Frank Wilson announced.

Knights of Pythias Plan N. Philly Meet

Salem council No. 1818, Knights of Pythias, are making arrangements to attend a meeting on June 15 at New Philadelphia when the rank of page will be conferred upon 300 candidates by the supreme lodge degree team. The team last year conferred the rank on President Roosevelt at the 72nd anniversary of the order.

The dances which have been held weekly during the winter will be discontinued this summer. A fish fry is planned for Saturday night at the hall.

Mrs. Ida Maloy Hanson told Judge Craig Hood she recognized the picture as that of her missing husband, learned he had divorced her and married a younger woman. Judge Hood voided the divorce and ordered the arrest of Hanson.

HOW STRONG IS LANDON? CHIEF G.O.P. QUESTION

Query Is Starting Point
Of Countless Political Conversations

COMMITTEE WORKS ON SEAT CONTESTS

Former Senator Moses
Against "Steam-Roller Tactics"

By JOSEPH L. MILLER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
CLEVELAND, June 4.—Guessing Gov. Alf M. Landon's strength in the race for the Republican presidential nomination was the big game today in the hotels here.

How many votes would the Kansan get on the first ballot at the national convention next week? How many on the second, if he didn't get the nomination by the third, would he get it at all?

Start Many Discussions
These were the questions that started nearly every one of the hundreds of politician-to-politician conversations.

Was John Hamilton, Landon leader, conservative when he predicted that his chief would get more than 300 on the first vote? Was David A. Reed, former United States senator from Pennsylvania, the same when he said a majority of his state's delegates favored Landon? Or were both overestimating?

While talk along this line went on, the national committee again went to work on contests for seats at the convention when it opens next Tuesday.

The committee's decisions on contests affect only the temporary roll if contestants choose to carry their fight to the convention. The convention itself is the final judge of its membership.

Late yesterday the committee decided to seat the Florida delegation headed by John F. Harris of Palm Beach. J. Leonard Lewis, Jacksonville Negro and head of a contesting delegation, said he would carry his fight to the convention.

Moses Predicts Contest
Former Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire predicted that the nominee would not be chosen before the sixth ballot.

"All attempts at steamroller tactics will fail before they get fairly started," Moses said. He is campaign manager for Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher.

Former President Herbert Hoover sent the following reply to National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher's invitation to address the convention: "I will be glad to respond to the wish of the committee at any time during the day of Wednesday, June 10."

Verdict Delayed
In Auto Fatality
Coroner Don Houser of Mahoning county withheld his verdict today in the death of Dr. Arthur "Wah Wahoo" Johnson, 95-year-old Indian herb doctor of Hugo, Okla., killed when struck by an automobile on Route 14, five miles northwest of Salem, yesterday noon.

The coroner reported the victim received two fractures of the skull and fractures of both legs. The broken bones were not apparent until a thorough examination was made.

The body remained at the funeral home today while state police attempted to locate relatives in Oklahoma.

The eighth grade promotion program will include:

Keynoter Steiwer Looms As Outside Choice If G.O.P. Compromise Candidate Is Picked

Oregon Senator One of Best Republican Orators
In Senate

CLEVELAND, June 4.—One of the interesting angles to the Republican convention of 1936 is the possibility, admittedly slim, that Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, convention keynoter, might be the "compromise candidate" if the Landon boom is stopped, an eventuality which now appears improbable.

At any rate, Steiwer looms as one of the most powerful "dark horses" potentially in the race for the G. O. P. presidential nomination.

Steiwer's senatorial record has contributed to his eligibility as the possible Republican standard bearer. He has been an ardent spokesman in promoting interest of veterans and is himself a World war veteran and active member of the American Legion. He also rates as a champion of the farmers. He has been an active rancher and wheat raiser and has expressed himself as against artificial crop curtailment and for a systematic program of land conservation.

Steiwer An Able Orator
It is not inconceivable that the 1936 convention might mark a repetition of those conventions at which James A. Garfield and William Jennings Bryan won the nomination on the strength of the enthusiasm engendered by their powerful oratory.

His oratorical ability has in fact accounted in great measure for the phenomenal rise of Senator Frederick Steiwer. His training as a member of the debate team at college helped carry him to success in his first major campaign in 1926 when he ran for the United States senate against two strong opponents and defeated them.

Another factor which has been in his favor in politics has been the friendship and support of Ralph E. Williams of Oregon, vice chairman of the Republican national committee.

Steiwer's political career began with his appointment as deputy district attorney for his native Umatilla county and his subsequent election as district attorney in 1912. Five years later he was elected to the state senate only to have his career interrupted by the war in which he served as an artillery lieutenant.

Although his election to the senate in 1926 over the opposition of formidable opponents in both the primary and election indicated his popularity, his true strength was revealed in 1932 when he was re-elected despite an overwhelming vote for Roosevelt.

Steiwer is 52, married and has two children and gives his audience the impression of being a two-fisted dynamic westerner as he attacks his subject with all the energy of his 220-pound, six feet two frame.

CYRIL M. FISHER

Former Salem Man Preparing to Say First Mass Here June 14

Cyril M. Fisher, O. P. son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher of Franklin st., will be ordained to the priesthood at special services Wednesday, June 10, at St. Dominic's church in Washington, D. C.

Following the ordination, he will come to Salem to visit relatives and friends, and he will say his first mass on Sunday, June 14, in St. Paul's church here.

A large number of relatives and friends expect to attend the ordination services in Washington.

Rev. Fr. Fisher graduated from St. Paul's school here and subsequently studied in Pittsburgh, Columbus, Providence, Kentucky, Chicago and Washington. He has a large number of friends throughout the district.

Parking Rules GO INTO EFFECT

Half-hour Limit Will Apply to Certain Sections in Downtown Area, Chief Explains

Half-hour parking limits in certain downtown sections of Salem went into effect today, Police Chief Ralph Stoffer announced.

Spots along State st. and Broadway where the half-hour markers were erected today, were made more noticeable by white paint along the curbing. Yellow painted curbs mean no parking at all.

Motorists are limited to an hour and a half parking in other sections of the downtown district. New markers also have been erected here at different intervals.

Chief Stoffer also appealed to parents today to warn their children of the dangers of playing in the streets. The dismissal of school tomorrow will afford boys and girls more opportunity to play.

ADAMS DENIES WIELDING GUN

Declares Burl Rogers carried Weapon; State,
Defense Rest

LISBON, June 4.—Both the state and the defense rested this afternoon in the Dudley Adams murder trial in common pleas court here after Adams, from the witness stand, denied he took part in the shooting and definitely declared that Burl Rogers carried the gun from which the shots were fired that killed Clarence Dickey, milk truck driver, last Christmas morning in East Liverpool.

Rogers, who escaped May 3 from the county jail, is still at large.

Case to Jury Tomorrow
Final arguments will be heard by the court tomorrow morning and the case will be presented to the jury.

The court reconvened today following an adjournment last Monday due to the sudden death of Atty. Robert M. Brooks, of East Liverpool, counsel for the defense.

Jason H. Brooks Jr., brother of the late attorney, joined Atty. Louis Tobin, East Liverpool, as defense counsel today. He was appointed by the court.

Under direct examination by Tobin, Adams recounted his early life. He told of how he went out "for a ride" with Clinton Daniels and Burl Rogers early Christmas morning, starting out at 2 a. m.

"Reaching the downtown section of East Liverpool, Adams recalled, we saw a milk wagon. Daniels said to Rogers, 'let's get a case of milk.'"

HOUSE LEADER IS CUT DOWN AT PEAK OF CAREER

Stricken by Heart Attack,
Followed by Cerebral
Hemorrhage

LOSS IS MOURNED BY BOTH PARTIES

William B. Bankhead, of Alabama Chosen As Successor

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 4.—Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama today was elected speaker of the house to succeed the late Joseph Wellington Byrns of Tennessee.

The Democratic floor leader was elevated to the chair shortly after sorrowing house members were called to order by the clerk, South Trimble.

Trimble announced a motion to name a speaker or speaker pro tempore was in order in a hushed hotel while leaders of all parties expressed shock and grief.

A totally unexpected heart attack, followed by a cerebral hemorrhage, brought death at 12:15 A. M., E. S. C. today to the Tennessee farm boy who rose to wield the speaker's gavel. He would have been 67 years old next July 20.

Legislative Program Uncertain
The passing of this tall and rangy pillar of his party in the turbulent hours of hard fighting between the New Deal and its foes plunged the legislative situation into further uncertainty. Almost until the hour he was stricken, Byrns had labored at a tremendous pace to pass the program through congress swiftly so the session could end on Saturday if possible.

Friends believed the hard work he insisted on doing may have hastened the fatal attack. Many observers believed that, with the speaker gone, the session now may sail well into next week or perhaps longer.

Soon after Byrns died in his room at the Mayflower hotel, with sorrowing relatives at his side, the word flashed around the Capital. Leaders decided not to notify President Roosevelt until later in the morning, but others soon were informed.

Those present at the deathbed were Mrs. Byrns, two brothers M. J. Byrns of Washington and John Byrns of Cincinnati, Mrs. M. J. Byrns, Col. Whaley, Dr. Calver and Representative McReynolds (D-Tenn.).

Effects of Influenza
An attack of influenza several years ago, said Dr. George W. Calver, had left Byrns with "a bad heart."

The house was to assemble today and quickly recess after making arrangements for a state funeral. Complete details of the arrangements were not made known immediately.

A Democrat caucus later was to decide whether another speaker would be elected to finish out the last days of the 74th congress or close the session with a speaker pro tempore.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, said: "His death comes as a great surprise and shock to his friends, and particularly to associates in congress. His work during the session has been very difficult and trying. He was a great speaker. He had the respect, confidence and admiration of the members of both bodies. He was my personal friend and I exceedingly regret his passing."

Representative Snell of New York, minority leader of the house, declared: "I am shocked beyond all imagination. It is a terrible thing. It is an almost irreparable loss."

It was seldom that under the guidance of Speaker Byrns the legislative desires of the White House were not followed, at least in main outline by the house.

MOMENTOUS DAYS

Sonorous phrases rolling from the mouths of perspiring speakers warn the graduating young that these are momentous days in which to take up the world's burden. In fact, baccalaureate and commencement orators do so surprisingly well at conveying an idea of the importance of things that nervous seniors couldn't be blamed for refusing to accept their diplomas.

These are momentous days for others than seniors preparing to sever academic connections. It is forgotten sometimes there are juniors, sophomores, freshmen and so on, back to the beginning of it all—the first grade. For all of them the world moves on each June. It would not be surprising to learn that the fifth grader who advances without a hitch to the sixth is every bit as much thrilled as the receiver of a master's degree cum laude.

The newly created sixth grader has one tremendous advantage. Beyond him stretches not uncertainty but certainty of passing into the seventh and eighth grades and very likely beyond. His life is mapped out; he is busy and destined to stay busy. All he must do is to saw wood while somebody else chops down the trees. In these momentous days of educational ceremony, therefore, congratulations should be broadcast to cover the youthful strivers who haven't yet successfully propelled themselves entirely out of a position of security.

THE DOPE

Everybody knows that administration leaders would like to get the tax bill passed by the end of the week so congress could go home. Actually, they really do expect to make it possible for representatives and senators to leave Washington not later than the evening of June 9.

In view of so much expectancy, there is bound to be some curiosity about the "real inside dope." What, for instance, has the country a right to expect about the tax bill's passage. Research, made possible by the fact someone figured it all out, brings to light these things:

The average length of time between introduction of tax and revenue bills in the house of representatives and final passage throughout the last 20 years is 3 1-3 months. Of 10 major bills, the speediest was last year's, which zipped from the house ways and means committee to President Roosevelt's desk in 25 days. Back in 1928, congress worked almost six months on a tax bill.

To get to the point, if the 1936 bill gets through congress by Saturday, it will have required only 1 1/2 months. That is less than average. It would be, however, not quite so unusual as the 1935 tax bill. On the whole, it is surprising that the "real inside dope" on the bill's passage should reflect so closely the dope on the bill itself—a good deal less than average but not quite so unusual as the 1935 monstrosity palmed off on congress by the sleight of hand performers who make only one dollar appear where two of them appeared before.

CIVILIZATION CONTINUES

The task of the civilizers in Ethiopia is hard. In addition to the perplexing economic problems of colonization, evidence has just been furnished—as was suspected some time ago—that the natives are not yet subdued.

While escorting a column of supply trucks on the road between Makale and Addis Ababa, 30 Italian soldiers were set upon by an overwhelming force of natives. They were able to hold off the encircling attack long enough for the radio operator to tap out S. O. S. calls on his portable set, but when reinforcements arrived all 30 had been slain.

Without a doubt, the occupying troops now will take extra precautions to guard against devastating guerrilla warfare of this type. Yet it seems probable that a long time will elapse before intransigent natives will bow to the armed force, if not the culture, of the civilizers.

An official announcement that the Ethiopian war claimed the lives of 4359 of the invaders adds to the impression that bringing civilization to a backward country always has been and must continue to be a costly business. Only a beginning has been made in Ethiopia. Such pestilences as disease and drastic economic strain have yet to take their toll.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, June 5

This promises to be a memorable and eventful day; with great benefit looming large, but all calling for very judicious and sagacious management. While important opportunities will open for increased finances, enhance business popularity and social prestige, with the indorsement of those in the seats of the mighty, yet there are many attendant pitfalls and menaces which are designed to "upset the apple cart," unless manipulated with calmness and prudence. Shun speculation, travel, scandal and strife.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which a good stroke of fortune awaits if prudence wisdom and sagacity are permitted to reign instead of reckless and quarrelsome behavior and unsound speculation and "plunges." There are portents of slander, gossip, intrigue and subtle attack and distortion. Make changes cautiously.

A child born on this day have a reckless, extravagant, impetuous and ambitious nature, which may lead it to the heights of success and popularity with corresponding reversals.

Notable nativity: Valesquez, painter.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 3—Not many American painters have come so quietly into favor after death as home-spun Charley Russell. His canvases and bronzes have shown the steady increase of popularity of a market rise—the same enthusiasm of the Remington future.

Russell as a broad-gauged westerner as breezy as his windswept horizon. Two of his warmest friends were Will Rogers and Irvin Cobb and each regarded him as the crack storyteller of his period. He was in tune with the earth and painted by ear.

I have a note from his prize student, Joe Di Yonz, which throws light on the Russell genius. He says: "If an artist these days paints an R. F. D. mail box or a one-galled farmer with a pitchfork a current art movement immediately hails him as a grand discovery in Americana."

"But 15 years ago when Russell was turning out paintings with life, color, action, feeling and sincerity to say nothing of good drawing, anatomy, and taste, his efforts were dubbed calendar stuff. The difference is that Russell knew the period and its people and how to paint them."

Winnie Sheehan has one of Russell's most spectacular bronzes—a raring horse with a cowboy in the saddle. In a spacious room filled with many art treasures it is the most diminutive, yet when guests collect it is the bronze about which they stand and admire. H. G. Wells once sat silently before it for an hour. Twice he came back to gaze.

There is a settled conviction that the Peck's bad boys of journalism are the Chicago-reared pair, Ben Hecht and Charles V. MacArthur. They are talented, impish enough and excellent press agents for themselves. But there are a hundred and one roaming scribes who have perpetrated more hell raising than the Hecht-MacArthur combination ever dreamed. They did their stuff for the sheer heck of it and went on their way to new jobs, new devilment without benefit of ballyhoo.

Dwight Fiske is the refined evolution of the shirt-sleeved fellow, with a gin rasp to his voice who sat in the saloon back room of another generation with a cigarette dangling from his lips. Cross-legged, he pounded a tinny piano and caroled off-color ditties. Fiske has merely polished the act and presented it in the alcove of a swank hotel. He appears in immaculate evening dress with his white tie ends, carnation and kerchief just so. His lyrics are masterpieces of double entendre—half-singing, half-talking classics of sophistication. For this he receives a reputed $1,500 a week for two one-hour appearances nightly. The back room artist got free drinks and whatever small coins the generous lusher tossed him and played constantly throughout the night.

Down on Second avenue they still feature blind pianists. There is one at Moscovitz's—or was the last time I was there—a smiling old fellow with a shock of snow-white hair and Paderewski profile that might have been carved from marble. He could play all the modern jazz but was pleased when asked to play something classical. Chinatown, too, had a sightless pianist in one of its cellar spots. He was once of concert calibre but slipped down the scale through drink, lost his vision and married a Chinese wife. Every evening, she brought him to work and at 4 a. m. came for him. Incidentally, the only native beggar Chinatown ever knew was a blind character known as Old Horse and Wagon.

In London one night Basil Woon and Forbes Fairbairn, showing me the sights, dropped into a dingy cafe in the famous Whitechapel district. Around the bar hovered a furtive young fellow who popped before you and performed what seemed an astonishing feat of magic. Some years later Earl Carroll was paying him many hundreds a week as a feature in his revue. Chevalier began as a ragged street gamine singing for sonus about the bistros of Paris.

I often wonder how far I might have gone professionally as a trick bicyclist. I could perform most of the experts of that day and had won a gold medal—which turned green, incidentally, over night—for my nimbleness. My career ended ingloriously when, standing one foot on the handle-bar and the other on the seat, I lost control and to save myself grabbed a neighbor's carriage nag around the neck. And Court street, with me hanging to a horse collar, had its most spectacular runaway.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Soap Antiseptic

Recently I received a letter from a survivor of one of the flood areas. He inquired, "Is there any disinfectant that I can use to clean mattresses and pillows rescued from the flood waters?"

It is probable that many of the sufferers from the terrible floods were confronted with similar problems. I receive letters, too, from persons who are worried about the use of bed linen, mattresses and other household materials, formerly used by the victims of contagious or infectious disease, such as tuberculosis.

In former years, disinfection and fumigation were considered as vitally important and insisted upon by all health authorities. Today these methods have been discontinued and the authorities disbelieve in their value. This is welcome news because fumigation was an annoying and costly attempt at protection.

Care During Illness

Of course, no one would be willing to occupy a bed or handle the objects in a room used by a sufferer from typhoid, scarlet fever, tuberculosis or diphtheria without first using some method of purification. In most instances, it is safe to say, however, that where great care and cleanliness have been used during the course of the disease, there will be little need of disinfection when the illness ends. But it is important to bear in mind that all such measures must be enforced throughout the sickness.

As a rule fabrics should be boiled, and the surface of the room should be scrupulously cleaned with soap and water, and followed, perhaps by an application of bichloride, carbolic acid or one of the cresol preparations. The most effective measure of guarding against lurking germs is thorough cleansing, renovating, airing and sunning the room.

Special attention should be given to the disinfection of the towels, bedding, handkerchiefs and fabrics. All articles that have reached the mouth of the patient should be carefully handled.

Soap As Antiseptic

Of course, the hands of the nurse, physician and others who come in contact with the patient must be kept scrupulously clean. Bear in mind that keeping the hands clean does more to promote health and prevent the spread of disease to others, than any old fashioned method of disinfection.

I am often asked what type of antiseptic is best. All the authorities agree that the common cake of soap, with an abundance of fresh water, is the most effective and safest agent of sanitation. It is important to remember that after the hands have been thoroughly cleaned and washed they should be dried with a clean towel. Avoid use of a soiled towel or one used by others.

EDMONTON, Alta.—King Edward VIII, owner of the E. P. ranch in Alberta, has been declared ineligible for the $25-a-month "basic dividends" promised every adult citizen of the province by the Social Credit Government. When and if the "bonus" is paid, it is stated, the King will not get it because he is not a permanent resident of the province.

17-Year Locust Will Visit Ohio Counties This Month

BY J. J. DAVIS
Purdue University Entomologist
Writer for the Associated Press
Throughout Indiana, 35 counties of Ohio, the southern edge of Michigan and eastern edge of Illinois, the periodical Cicada, better known as the 17-year locust, appears during June by the millions, after a life of 17 years in the soil.

Similar appearances will occur in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Long Island, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, as well as in the mountainous regions of eastern Tennessee, western North Carolina, and northern Georgia.

Not the True Locust
The insect should not be confused with the true locust, commonly known in the United States as the grasshopper. It was this latter insect that was referred to in the Bible as occurring in such vast numbers, and not the 17-year "locust" or cicada.

Seventeen years ago, that is in 1919, the tiny young, hatching from eggs laid in the twigs of woody plants, entered the ground and began sucking the juices from the roots of trees and shrubs. They went to a depth of perhaps two feet where the annual temperature is practically the same year after year.

Their growth has been slow and therefore the sap taken from the roots has not had a noticeable effect on the plants, even though the young cicadas occurred in large numbers. They are now full grown and naught remains except that they dig out of the ground, crawl up a tree trunk or fence post and emerge from their shell-like case to become winged and fully developed individuals.

THREE GROUPS HOLD MEETING

Columbiana, North Lima Church Units Meet At Lisbon

COLUMBIANA, June 4.—The Missionary society of the Grace Reformed church met with the society of St. Jacob's Reformed church, Lisbon this afternoon. The society of Mt. Olivet Reformed church, North Lima, also joined in the meeting.

The Lutheran Missionary society met yesterday in the church, a cordial dinner being served at noon. The afternoon program included a paper on "Mormonism" by Rev. C. J. Sturtevant.

Tea On Friday
The Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will hold its quarterly tea Friday evening at the home of Mrs. C. B. Clapp, North Elm st.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hisey and daughter, Catherine, attended commencement exercises of Mercy hospital, Canton. Miss Elizabeth Hartough, former local resident was one of the graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Lodge and son, Evan spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williams and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Williams, Columbiana.

Visits Parents
Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hisey, Syracuse, N. Y., are visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hisey, and family, Union st.

Miss Garnet Gooley, Cincinnati and Miss Frances Seederly, North Canton were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Coyle and family.

Eugene Crawford is visiting with friends at Toronto, Can. Mrs. Hindman, Norwalk, was a recent guest of her daughter, Mrs. William Barton.

Immediately after they become full grown the males make their presence known by a shrill, incessant "song." The fact that the female cannot produce sounds accounts for the well-known verse: "Happy are cicada's lives For they all have voiceless wives."

The notoriety given this insect is not due so much to the damage which it inflicts as to the fact that it appears in enormous numbers.

PROHIBITION PARTY ACTIVE
Editor, The News:

I believe there are many people in Salem and vicinity who are deeply interested in the cause of prohibition. Many will be pleased to learn that the prohibition party is still functioning nationally; indeed, never has ceased to function from its birth in 1869.

In May it held a national convention at Niagara Falls. A splendid, constructive platform was adopted and Dr. D. Leigh Colvin was nominated for President of the United States.

He is a man in every way fitted for that high office and deserves the support of all righteously inclined voters. He will be the only candidate pledged for "righteousness that exalteth a nation."

Friday of this week has been set for the formal notification. His speech of acceptance will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting company, blue network, New York City, Friday 9 to 9:30 p. m. LAURA M. SCHILLING.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 Miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 Miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills at your druggist.

YOU NEED THESE life-saving advantages OF CONCRETE

From your own experience you know that concrete is the safest road. Its even surface makes driving easier, reduces nervous strain and results in better car control. Its gritty texture improves traction and braking, resists skidding, wet or dry. Because of its flat "crown" drivers don't tend to ride the center of the road—passing is safer. Concrete makes night driving safer. Its light-grey surface reflects more light, helps you see better. Illuminates obstacles and pedestrians. Sharply defines the edges and helps you stay on the road.

Highway officials are striving to reduce traffic accidents. Urge them to pave with concrete and secure for your community the safest as well as most economical pavement money can buy. You can benefit by your active interest as many others have done.

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

THE well-advertised Queen Mary, looking very big moving up to her New York dock, represented in reality the quintessence of compressed power. On the way over she developed one hundred and sixty thousand horsepower.

That number of horses hitched in pairs, one ahead of the other, would make a "team" more than two hundred and fifty miles long, still more remarkable power compression is that of the flying engine, which compresses the power of a 1,000-pound horse into less than three pounds of metal.

THE government offered for sale six hundred millions of two and three-quarter per cent bonds; four hundred millions of one and three-eighths per cent notes; the whole issue is oversubscribed.

It is a comfort for those that have money and want no risk to invest even at low interest rates, free of income tax payments.

SUCH AN investment is much simpler than running the risk of a business enterprise with payrolls and jobs attached.

To tax heavily the man who uses his money and brains to give work to others, and free from taxation those that buy bonds and take their ease, is a brand new kind of democracy.

IF YOU had infra-microscopic eyes and could see microbes one hundred thousandths of an inch in length trying to climb one of the protuberances of the skin of an orange, falling back, suffering, struggling, trying again, you would say:

"Little creature, why are you so anxious to get up there? You would see nothing, after you got there."

ANGELS that watch us may feel that way about a little group of Englishmen in a race against cold, winds and death, now struggling to reach the top of Mt. Everest in the Himalayas.

The deadly monsoon threatens them, terrific winds hurl the snow against them in heavy sheets, but upward they toil, although there would be nothing to see if they got there.

THE HEIGHT of that mountain amounts to one one-thousandth part of the earth's diameter, and, if, after those climbers reach the top, the terrible northwest wind strikes them, they will all die. WHY do they try after so many disastrous failures?

The answer is that it is not in man's nature to give up; that is why he rules the earth and, eventually, may rule himself.

WHILE Bruno Richard Hauptmann was waiting to die with occasional reprieves, Charles Zied was waiting for the same electric death in the next cell. The plan was to kill Zied first, then Hauptmann. Hauptmann was reprieved, Zied was reprieved, Hauptmann went to the gloomy electric room and died, now Zied, without advertising or notoriety, has gone the same road.

HE AND Hauptmann used to talk from cell to cell. Will they meet again at the far end of the electric road and again talk? What will Hauptmann have to tell Zied in the way of news, about the place to which murderers go?

IN ROUMANIA 500,000 peasants revolt, objecting to a red-haired lady named Magda Lupescu, who has too much influence over the King without being married to him.

The lady cannot understand all the fuss. It does represent a change from old days, when a French king could impoverish his peasants, building the magnificent places at Versailles and covering the roads deep with salt, that his friend, to whom he also was not married, could enjoy a sleigh ride in mid-summer; and when the heavy Gabelle, the salt tax, hung so heavily on the poor.

DR. EDWARD CAPPS, American professor, of Princeton, is intellectually excited about a highly decorated shield found in an old well in Athens. It may be the shield captured by Athenians from the Spartan General Brasidas at the battle of Pylos, more than 2,300 years ago.

BRASIDAS was the bravest Spartan in that battle, according to Thucydides, but time passes and interests change. There are 1,000 now in America deeply interested in Joe Louis for one that ever heard of Pylos' Brasidas, or Thucydides.

GOVERNORS of five British colonies in East Africa meet to discuss the defense of their territory, mainly air defense. England's colonies, rapidly growing up, soon will outgrow their old mother, living on her little island off the northwest coast of Europe. They know that an enemy, striking unseen from below the water and above the clouds, might finish his attack on an unprotected country before Mother Britannia could come to help. It will be each country for itself in airplane war.

SERVICE HELD AT LEETONIA

New York Catholic Representatives Preside Over Program

LEETONIA, June 4.—Members and former members of St. Patrick's Catholic church and friends participated in an unusual religious service held Sunday afternoon. Devotions began in the church, a procession of school children, adults, servers in cassock and surplice and finally the priests in ecclesiastical attire marched to the newly erected shrine in front of the school.

The children formed a living rosary. The new statue, "Our Lady of Grace," six feet high, made of stone, especially designed for use as an outdoor shrine, was blessed on this occasion. At the conclusion of the Rosary, Mary Kovack placed a wreath upon the head of the statue, symbolizing the crowning of Mary, Queen of the May. Rev. W. A. Marchant, O. P., pastor of St. Vincent's church, New York, presided, and Rev. Eugene Kavanaugh, O. P., also of New York, spoke at the service.

Taft May Become Strong Figure In G. O. P. Convention

CINCINNATI, June 4.—Some Ohio Republican leaders looked ahead of the Cleveland national convention today for Robert A. Taft, their "favorite son" candidate, and weighed the possibility that friends of his late father might become a vital force by which he would emerge as more than the Ohio party's nominal standard-bearer.

Taft, elder son of the former president and late Chief Justice William Howard Taft, yesterday gave a free rein to 47 Ohio delegate votes in the convention. Friends of his father, however, are virtually certain to be among the state delegates converged from all parts of the country. Taft's supporters said, possibly in such number as to become an effective force in his favor.

Preparing to leave Saturday for a conference in Cleveland with Ed. D. Schorr, state Republican chairman, Taft said plans call for Ohio's 47 votes to be cast together for his nomination through several ballots. The Buckeye "favorite son" steadfastly has refused to indicate any other choice, saying he considered his chances of obtaining the nomination "at least as good" as those of U. S. Senator William E. Borah, who won the remaining five of Ohio's delegates.

A Good Record

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Senator Rush D. Holt (D-W. Va.) claimed for himself and Senator Vic Donahey (D-Ohio) today the distinction of being the only members of the senate not to introduce a single bill at the present session of congress.

"We have too many laws now," Holt observed in stating that 17,000 bills had been offered by senators and congressmen at this session.

W. R. PHILLIPS KIWANIS GUEST

State Representative Is Speaker At Lisbon Meeting

LISBON, June 4.—State Representative William R. Phillips was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at the American Legion home here today. Phillips recounted the activity of the legislature during the last six months. Robert E. Hall, president of the club, was chairman.

Plan Summer Meeting
Members of the Lisbon Coterie club have under consideration a summer meeting, time and place for which has not been determined. In former years the members of the group have sponsored an evening outing and picnic supper.

Attend Brookes Funeral
County office heads, without exception, attended the funeral of the late Robert M. Brookes at East Liverpool Wednesday afternoon. Only a skeleton office force remained on duty in all offices. All attorneys here closed their offices at noon Wednesday to attend a meeting of the Columbiana Bar association at East Liverpool, held prior to the funeral.

Teachers Retire
At the close of the school term here Friday, Charles A. White, principal of the Lincoln school, and Mrs. Maude Steele, principal of the McKinley school, will retire from active service. The Lisbon board of education has not selected their successors. Both will be placed on the teachers' retirement list.

Conclude Visit
Following a visit at the home of Mrs. Alice Burnett, of North Market st., Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Burnett have returned to their home at Detroit, Mich.

Guest In Scroggs Home

96-Year-Old Papa Who Amazed Medics Amazes 'em Again

(By Associated Press)
NEW BERN, N. C., June 4.—George Isaac Hughes, the 96-year-old confederate veteran who amazed the medical world when he became a father 17 months ago, was all smiles again today and, if he had any, he'd be passing cigars about.

By the light of a crude, old-fashioned kerosene lamp in a small room of their little home near here, another child—a girl this time—was born last night to his 28-year-old wife, Libby Hill Hughes, whom Hughes married two and a half years ago.

"It looks like we might raise a pretty big family after all," Hughes commented. "You know I've been saying all along I'd live to be 110 years old—that's how long my grandmother, Katie Tillman, lived, and I don't look so old yet, do I?"

Hughes is vigorous for his age. He was the only veteran to attend recent Confederate memorial exercises in the county. His faculties are clear and he does odd jobs, chopping wood and keeping a garden.

The Hughes' only income is a small Confederate pension. There weren't any scales available, but Dr. Duffy estimated Mary Gertrude's weight at 6½ pounds. Both the baby and the mother, he said, are doing "nicely."

Investigators said West apparently was struck by a Cleveland bound passenger train.

Myrna Loy and Will Rogers in a reissue of "A Connecticut Yankee" showing at the State Friday and Saturday.

"A Connecticut Yankee, considered one of Will Rogers' best pictures and, by public demand, has been brought back to the State theater Friday and Saturday. This satire on the days of King Arthur and his court, written by Mark Twain, is known as "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Myrna Loy and Maureen O'Sullivan have the leading feminine roles, with William Farnum, Frank Albertson and Brandon Hurst in the supporting cast.

Inspired in Museum
It is said that Twain was inspired to write this satire during a visit to a British museum. Among the cures which Twain examined was a breastplate, supposed to date back to the sixth century, the period when "knighthood was in flower." Twain noticed on the breastplate a bullet hole just over the heart.

Seeking an attendant, he asked for an explanation, since the PORTSMOUTH, June 4.—Representatives of the Amalgamated association of iron, steel and tin workers considered today an ultimatum from executives of the strike-closed Wheeling steel corp., plant that the company would not operate a closed shop or sign a contract with the union but that it welcomed a conference at which plant department councils could meet with the union. Some 5,500 employees have been idle for 13 days as a result of the strike.

sixth century was long before the invention of gun power. He could not understand how a knight of that century could be killed by a bullet. The attendant explained that of course this was not what happened but it was the work of vandals at the time of Oliver Cromwell who took delight in destroying historical relics. Some of these soldiers he said probably put the bullet hole in the armor.

The explanation, Twain remarked, "showed a grasp of history and a lack of imagination." So Twain supplied the imagination and wrote the story of Kink Arthur and his court in humorous, satirical style.

A Familiar Story
Everyone is familiar with the story of the small town Connecticut merchant who is transported back through the ages to the times of King Arthur and his round table. This Yankee steps in and revolutionizes the business of knighthood, installs bathtubs in medieval England and astounds the natives with his new fangled ideas. In the climax he is captured by a wicked queen, Myrna Loy, and escapes from her only to be replaced in his own hectic day and age. None of the comedy and satire of Twain's famous story is lost by Rogers in his portrayal of the Yankee.

"Till We Meet Again" a story of war, spies, love and adventure, with Herbert Marshall and Gertrude Michael, will be shown tonight at the State.

SENATE RECESS ORDERED TODAY

Abandon Hope of Adjournment Prior to
G.O.P. Convention

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Congressional leaders today abandoned all hope of adjourning congress before the Republican national convention in view of the death of Speaker Byrnes.
The senate, which had expected to pass the tax bill today in an effort to wind up the session Monday night, recessed immediately when it met at 10 a. m. out of respect to the speaker, who died suddenly during the night.
Leaders said they would still try to pass the bill tomorrow or Saturday in order to get the controversial measure into conference, but that there was virtually no prospect for final action on it before the Republican convention beginning Tuesday.

They said that with the tax bill in conference, three-day recesses would be taken during the convention, and that an effort would be made to complete action on the conference report and adjourn congress finally during the week between the Republican and Democratic conventions.
Senator Robinson of Arkansas,
the Democratic leader, discounted forecasts that if congress returned after the Republican convention the session would last indefinitely to consider other legislation pressing for action.
He said that as soon as the tax and relief bills were on the statute books congress would adjourn regardless of the status of other legislation.

Plan State Park

COLUMBUS, June 4.—The state board of control had under consideration today a request from the conservation council to appropriate $50,000 to purchase land for a 2,700 acre state park in Clinton county.
Voters in the county already have approved a $50,000 bond issue for the project. The council also approved 10-day non-resident fishing licenses for $1.10, subject to Gov.
Martin L. Davey's action.

AKRON, June 4.—Municipal
Judge Ray B. Watters will rule
Friday on defense motions to free
31 unionists of riot charges in connection with a "sitdown" protest at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company plant No. 2.
Defense counsel contended at a hearing yesterday that affidavits against the men were "defective."

"Voice of Safety" Fleet Pays Visit To Salem

Eleven fleets of Oldsmobiles, five cars in each fleet, all specially painted white and equipped with public address systems, are being operated throughout the country in the interests of safety. One of the fleets arrived in Salem today.

The cars are six-cylinder touring sedans, and are manned by specially trained men. In charge of each five-car fleet is a safety representative, who has been put through a special course of training.

In each city visited the cars will be turned over to the police department and manned by them during the stay. They will be used to point out to motorists and pedestrians common errors in driving by use of the public address equipment. In some instances the cars will be parked on downtown streets where there is heavy traffic congestion and in others they will be used to spread the message of safety to large gatherings of people.

"Oldsmobile believes that by education of motorists the number of accidents can be materially reduced," said D. E. Ralston, vice president and general sales manager. "We have hit upon this plan of education after a careful study to determine in what way Oldsmobile could best serve the motoring public.

"Experience of police departments in various American cities has proved this plan to be practical and effective. We are therefore providing these cars in order that the work may be done at no expense to the police, as in many instances it is not possible for the department to buy and equip cars of this nature for an educational campaign.

While here, the "Voice of Safety" fleet will be headquartered at the Althouse Motor Co., garage on East Pershing st.

Safety Congress

Told of Dangers Of Serious Fires

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 4.—The temperature of the air may be raised so high by a burning building that another building, 100 feet away, can burst into flames without sparks touching it, the all-Ohio safety congress was told last night.

W. J. Gilsdorf, Columbus insurance man, said this condition was largely responsible for the destruction of East Nashville, Tenn., by fire in 1916.

Combustible material in a building in the path of a hot blast, he explained, can rise to a temperature where it absorbs oxygen, and spontaneous combustion occurs.

The average fire department, Gilsdorf said, is unable to cope with fires at this, what he called the conflagration stage.

Buildings will ignite sometimes, he added, when their temperature is raised to 1,000 degrees. The temperature of a burning building, he said, is 1,800 to 2,000 degrees.

Gilsdorf warned of the fire hazards in oily rags and fine dust. Metal dust, Gilsdorf said, can explode with terrific force.

Claude Bawden of Mansfield estimated America's annual fire waste at one billion dollars.

POTSDAM, N. Y., June 4. — A year ago Leslie Wright of Crakry Mills was plowing on the farm of Arthur Martin. When he finished, his billfold and $65 was missing. But now he has it back.

The lost money, none the worse for being buried a year, was found by Nelson Pearl White cultivating the same field.

No more tired let-down feeling for me

—I feel and look better
—there is color in my cheeks
—my appetite is keen
—my weight is back to normal.

"This I am noting in my Diary and I give full credit to S.S.S. for causing me to 'feel like myself again.'"

So we suggest—

Don't try to get well in a day... this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried.

Therefore, if you are pale, tired, lack a keen appetite, have lost weight and feel run-down... a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak, with a tendency towards anemia—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic.

RUNYAN LEADS OPEN TOURNEY

Diminutive N. York Pro Shoots 69 In First Round of Event

BALTUSROL GOLF CLUB, SPRINGFIELD, N. J., June 4—Blistering the incoming half of the Baltusrol course diminutive Paul Runyan, the Arkansas-born professional from the Metropolis club of White Plains, N. Y., fired a 35-34, 69, four under par, today to take a one-shot lead in the first round of the United States open golf championship. He holed out a 125-yard mashie niblock shot on the 602-yard 11th, longest hole on the course, for an eagle three.

Runyan's electrifying performance, the best he has ever shown in this tournament, overhauled tall Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., professional, heavily-backed favorite, who had set the early pace with a sub-par 70.

The former National P. G. A. champion gained a two-stroke margin over Blonde Craig Wood of West Orange, N. J., Ted Longworth of Portland, Ore., and Harry Cooper, Chicago professional, all with 71.

Among those in pursuit, Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., tall, handsome and one of the longest hitters in the professional brigade, set a new low mark of 33, three under par, for the outgoing nine.

Runyan's 69 clipped a stroke off the competitive record for the Baltusrol course. The former mark of 70, which Picard equalled, was set last year by Craig Wood.

HOFFMAN FACES RESPONSIBILITY

Must Decide Whether To Extradite His Friend, Ellis Parker Jr.

(By Associated Press)

MT. HOLLY, N. J., June 4.—The arrest of Ellis Parker, Sr., chief of Burlington county detectives, on a charge of kidnapping and assaulting Paul H. Wendel threw into the lap of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman today new responsibilities in the bizarre sequel to the Lindbergh baby murder.

Whether Hoffman would extradite Parker, his friend and trusted investigator, to New York to face trial on Wendel's charge that he was tortured into falsely confessing the kidnapping of little Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was a question.

Parker was arrested last night as he sat with a group of friends on the porch of the Mt. Holly Elks club. A grand jury in Brooklyn, N. Y., had indicted him three hours earlier.

The widely known sleuth stood blinking in amazement as the warrant was read to him. Then he put on his glasses and scrutinized it for himself. Granted an immediate hearing in the club house, he provided $500 bail and went home to bed.

Parker said he would fight extradition "to the end."

"I would be a fool not to do so," he added.

Hoffman, apprised of Parker's arrest while at a lodge initiation in Hackensack, declined to comment "at this time."

Parker Sr., was the sixth man whose indictment was obtained by District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Kings county (Brooklyn). The indictment returned today superseded the previous one, naming both Parkers and omitting Harry Blefield, who died while out on bail. Parker, Jr., is a fugitive and the others named in both bills, all Brooklyn men, are under bond.

House Committee Approves Set-Up For Relief Rolls

COLUMBUS, June 4.—Ohio relief clients would be required to accept employment offers—or be stricken permanently from poor relief aid rolls—under tentative terms of a new relief bill.

A house finance sub-committee, named to draft a new relief bill, approved such a step yesterday following complaints of rural members that farmers could not obtain labor because many potential workers were on relief.

The committee recommended dismissal from relief by persons refusing private jobs, but favored reinstatement of those who accept temporary work.

In another move to clarify the state's relief situation, the sub-committee directed Lucas county commissioners to hold an immediate special election to vote on $8,000 worth of bonds.

Similar bond issues have been defeated twice in Lucas county. Commissioners notified the commissioners by letter that they could not draft a bill to care for Lucas county's needs unless such bonds were voted.

Bargains are plentiful. The ads. will tell you where.

Salem Merchants Suffer Fifth Straight Defeat In County League Game

Blanked by Homer Laughlin Potters, 12-0, At Newell, W. Va., Yesterday; East Liverpool and Lisbon Hanna Oils Win County Games

The Salem Merchants went blank as they suffered their fifth straight defeat at the hands of the Homer Laughlin Potters, 12-0, in a Columbus County Baseball league game at Newell, W. Va., yesterday. It was the Merchants' third consecutive loss in the county circuit. Unable to figure the slants of pitcher Simmons of Newell, the Merchants managed to collect but four hits, none of which could be converted into runs. They left seven men stranded on the bases during the contest.

Newell scored its 12 runs in the first, sixth and seventh innings on 11 hits taken from the offerings of three Salem pitchers, Curst, Pukalski and Chappell. Besides turning in an exceptional performance, Simmons aided Newell at bat with two hits out of three trips to the plate.

Other heavy hitters for the Homer Laughlin Potters were T. Mosser and Halverstadt, who both bled in the first inning. Halverstadt hammered out two of the Merchants' hits while the others were secured by Chappell and Pukalski.

In other county league games yesterday, the Crockery City nine of East Liverpool took a tighter hold on first place in the circuit by blasting East Palestine, 6-1, and the Lisbon Hanna Oils remained in a tie for second place with Newell by trampling Leetonia, 18-3.

Simpson, on the mound for the Hanna Oils, granted Leetonia batsmen but four hits during the contest while his mates were collecting 12 blows. Arnold pitched for Leetonia.

Home runs by Price and Griffith aided the Oilers in the victory.

WON'T CERTIFY PITCHER RYBA

Red Birds Await Decision of Association President

COLUMBUS, June 4. — The Columbus Red Birds awaited today decision of President William C. Brumham of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, on their challenge of an American association rule forbidding use of players received through parent clubs after May 15. The Red Birds' president, Donald Beach, appealed to Judge Brumham last night by telegram after the association president, George (Red) Trautman, informed the local club that he could not certify Pitcher Mike Ryba on the active list.

Ryba, with the Birds last year, was optioned from the St. Louis Cardinals, with whom the Columbus club is affiliated. Beach said Ryba would be with the team in time to pitch Friday, despite Trautman's ruling. He contended the no-trade rule was aimed directly at Columbus.

ROOKIES ASSIST YANKEES, CARDS

DiMaggio and Stu Martin Are Class of 1936 Rookie Crop

Associated Press Staff Writer

The slugging prowess of Yankee Joe DiMaggio and Cardinal Stu Martin appears to have those two youngsters ticketed as the class of the 1936 rookie crop. Their extra base belting has them batting in or around the coveted .400's, and has been doing a lot toward keeping the New York Yankees and the gas house gang from St. Louis at the top of their respective league heaps.

Both have been breaking up ball games with their stickwork, only yesterday, DiMaggio, who came up from the Coast last spring as the most highly publicized rookie in the history of the business, clubbed out a triple with the bases loaded, and a single, also with men on the bags, to break the hearts of the aspiring Chicago White Sox and give the Yanks an easy 11-1 win.

Paces Cards

At the same time, Martin, a product of Asheville, N. C., was hammering out a single and triple to pace the St. Louis larrupers to a 7-3 victory over Brooklyn.

Despite these triumphs, however, the two leading clubs were unable to increase their respective league leads, for the second place outfits also were winning their games—the Boston Red Sox downing the Cleveland Indians 6-2 with a five-run spurge in the seventh, and Hal Schumacher, limiting the Chicago Cubs to three hits while his New York Giant mates were making all their runs off Curt Davis in the first inning for a 3-0 win.

The Boston Bees, with Bob Reis doing an effective job of relief pitching as well as singling home the winning run in the 11th inning, noosed out the Pirates, 4-3; the Washington Senators found the going easy for a 7-4 conquest of the hapless St. Louis Browns, and the supposedly weak Philadelphia Athletics surprised the world's champion Detroit Tigers 11-7, despite homers by Goose Goslin and Ervin Fox. The Phillies and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

GREYS DROP TO SECOND PLACE

Victim of Zanesville In Mid-Atlantic League Game Yesterday

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 4. — Dayton and Johnston went into a tie for top honors in the Middle Atlantic league today while Zanesville, ahead of all contenders before last night's games, dropped into a second-place tie with the rampant Akron Yankees.

Dayton victimized Zanesville, 8 to 7 with a seventh-inning spree that gave it its sixth victory of the season out of seven starts. Akron mopped up on Huntington, 10 to 1.

Johnston got back to share the lead which it has been in and out of all season with a 9 to 5 victory over Charleston.

Portsmouth, persistent cellar occupant, lost a touch-luck battle to Canton, 6 to 5. Canton scored three runs in the ninth inning after trailing all through the game.

Greys dropped to second place in the league today, losing to the Yankees, 8 to 7, in a game that was a real slugfest.

The Yankees, who were leading the league, were held to a 1-0 victory by the Greys, who were in second place.

Sports' Biggest Gamble, The National Open Golf Tourney, Starts Today

At Least 20 Players Rated Good Chance To Win, Making Tournament Widest-Open In 40 Years;
Defending Champ, Sam Parks, Rated 50 to 1

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., June 4—The biggest gamble in sports—the United States open golf championship—started today over the staid and storied Baltusrol club course with the bookmakers, as usual in this show, sticking out their necks.

This was one of the widest-open opens in 40 years with at least 20 players rated a good chance to win.

All told, there were 168 scheduled starters. The pace setting rates fell to a southwestern pair, Jack Mungler, Dallas amateur, and Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City, a recent recruit to the pro ranks. Their starting time was 7:15 A. M. (Est.).

The consensus on the final score ranged from a record-equalling 286—the mark set 20 years ago by Chick Evans, Jr., and tied in 1932 by Gene Sarazen—to 289. The course, a 6,866 par 72 layout, will yield to good shot making and it's a cinch par will be cracked a-plenty before the windup Saturday afternoon.

Sam Parks, the Pittsburgh pro who staggered experienced club-swingers at Oakmont last year by coming through at 50 to 1, didn't teach rookies much of a lesson because they're quoting him again at the same price.

Sarazen Came Through

It's been four years, at least, since a pre-tournament favorite came through. Sarazen had to shoot the last nine in 31 at Fresh Meadow in 1932 to turn the trick. Although his winning streak has been stalled since his 1933 triumph at Augusta and he has done little in practice to warrant it, Sarazen was held even with Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., favorite at 8 to 1.

Third choice at 12 to 1, Horton Smith of Chicago appeared to be long up there with Picard and Sarazen.

Johnny Revolta, the professional champion, at 15 to 1, Byron Nelson, the sandy-haired tefan, knocked down from 30 to 1 to 18 to 1, and Bobby Cruickshank and Jimmy Thomson, the siege-gun, at 20 to 1 each, were other prime favorites. Walter Hagen, who first won the title 22 years ago, was held at 30 to 1.

PLANS SHAPING FOR GOLF PLAY

Inverness Tourney at Toledo
Rounding Into
Form Today

TOLEDO, June 4—Ohio's headline golf attraction—the Inverness $4,500 invitational tournament scheduled June 25-28—rounded into form today as 15 of the nation's leading professionals accepted bids to participate.

The sixteenth berth in the best-ball two-man team classic will be filled by the national open winner at Baltusrol, and if that winner is listed among the 15 already selected, then Graig Wood, the big blond New Jerseyite will get the call. And there is a live possibility that the 15 certain starters may have the new open champion in their ranks, for a roll call of their names sounds like a "who's who."

Here they are: Henry Picard, Johnny Revolta, Denny Shute, Vic Ghezzi, Ky Laffoon, Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, Bobby Cruickshank, Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson, Lawson Little, Jimmy Hines, Willie Klein and Ray Mangrum.

Players who took part in last year's event, but who will not be back this season, are Billy Burke, Al Espinosa, Leo Liegel, Al Watrous and Sam Parks.

The 16 players will be split into eight teams of two men each, and each team will meet all the others in best ball 18-hole matches. Points are awarded on a plus and minus basis, and the pair with the greatest number on the plus side at the finish of the round-robin takes 1,000 of Prize money.

Pickard and Revolta copped the lion's share of the wealth a year ago, and they will team up again in an attempt to repeat. Shute and Ghezzi, second in the 1935 inaugural, will pair up again. Other pairings are Laffoon and Hagen, Armour and Cruickshank, Smith and Cooper, Thomson and Little, Hines and Klein, and Mangrum and the new open champion, or Wood.

Chet Laabs Leads Sluggers In Loop

COLUMBUS, June 4—President George M. Trautman of the American Association released figures which placed Chet Laabs, Milwaukee outfielder, out in front of sluggers so far this season with a .730 average. Next came two Columbus outfielders, Winslett with .700, Cullop with .673. Owen, Columbus catcher, is ninth with .556 although he is the league's leading hitter.

Vandalia Is Scene Of Trapshoot Meet

DAYTON, June 4—The Grand American trapshoot, which no one has won twice, will be held Aug. 24 to 28 at nearby Vandalia with the Grand American handicap, a 100-target classic, featuring the final day. J. B. Royall, Tallahassee, Fla., railway conductor, triumphed last year in his first attempt at the national event.

THE GUMPS—SHERLOCK GUMP

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

POLLY AND HER PALS

"BLIND TO LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Even as a baby Mary Shannon was independent.

"Will you lookit the little devil kick!" Pa exulted, when at the age of two she kicked her grandmother, his wife's mother, in the shins, to show her disapproval of the soapy washcloth with which Gramma was going to make her nice and clean.

Long before she was six she had definite ideas about pink ruffled dancing dresses with panties to match. She knew exactly what she wanted, and set out to get it.

If, after she got it, she wanted something else instead, she did not hesitate to change her mind, and right about face.

The Shannons were paying for the upright piano bought when she was ten, so she could take music lessons, long after she gave up piano for ukelele.

It stood, a shiny mahogany milestone marking one epoch of her education, in the corner between the front and back parlors, and that it never wore an embroidered Mandarin skirt was because Mary Shannon developed a conscience just at the time she developed a taste for Mandarin skirts on pianos.

For 18 years she had followed the flowery path of complete and gorgeous selfishness. With Ma to tell Pa that Mary wasn't asking a bit more than any other girl her age, and Pa to dig down in his pockets, and Aunt Willie, who came to live with them after Grandma died, to tell her not to let that Jean Harvey, who wasn't half as bright and sweet and pretty, get ahead of her, it was simple.

From dancing school and tulle and spangled ballet skirts that Ma and Aunt Willie sat up nights over, to piano, to ukelele, to tennis rackets, to chiffon hose and pink silk undies, to peach colored taffeta ready-made formal ($27.50, and alterations extra) for the Hi School Graduating Dance, to college and more ready-made clothes and a sorority pin, was just one triumphant march.

And she'd be marching yet if she hadn't seen Pa's collar.

Pa's collar, a little too big for him, frayed on the edges, limp.

It was the night she was trying to cram for a history final and couldn't keep her mind on anything but Jamie Todd.

When she tried to put it on history it just went blank.

She kept looking at Pa's collar, because it happened to be right in her line of vision. He was sitting across the table from her, reading the evening paper.

Of course she'd always known he didn't make very much. If he had, they'd have moved from Oakland to

At five o'clock, it was necessary to appear hatted and coated before Mr. Bennet could ask her to take another letter.

Piedmont when the Harveys did. But, looking at him that night, seeing that collar, watching him nod over his paper, his head forward, looking so uncomfortable, so helpless and sort of old and defeated, had changed everything.

It had come to her, in a sort of sickening flash, that he was getting old and he'd never be able to make more money, no matter how hard he tried.

As if for the first time she saw the whole house, not as it was to her—so much junk that ought to be got rid of and replaced with better things, but as it must seem to him and Ma.

The green glass table lamp that he and Aunt Willie had clubbed together to buy for Ma one Christmas. The radio they were still paying on. The piano they'd paid $500 for. The hand-painted cups on the plate rack. It was all so wonderful to them.

If she wanted to be a private secretary instead of a dancer, or an actress, or an art teacher, as previously planned. It was up to her, though they didn't hesitate to express their disappointment.

"A private secretary," Pa said. "Why, anyone can be a private secretary, babe!"

"Not the kind I'm going to be!" He puffed up a little then.

But he needn't have, because now that she was a private secretary—or stenographer really—it wasn't much to brag about. Salaries started to drop about the time she started working.

She didn't intend working forever. It was just something to do until Jamie was through school.

Until Jamie was through school... and she could shake the dust of the office from her skirts and be Mrs. James Todd, Jr.

Sometimes she thought she could not stand it.

The waiting. The uncertainty.

Not knowing just where she stood with him. He seemed to love her. He must love her. She knew he did. But he never said so. Not in so many words. And he never said just when they'd be married. He never really asked her, though he implied that some day, not so very far, far away...

That came of falling in love with a boy who had money. Money and social position. You had his family to buck. His family, and all his friends.

Well, that's the way it goes. You have got to expect that.

She'd always been ambitious. Independent. She'd worked hard on her job, too. Tried not to think of Jamie too much during office hours.

There had been no time for day dreaming today. A thick pile of carefully-typed ship's manifests lay beside her on the desk. She'd earned her pay.

Toward 5 her fingers lagged. She made two or three erasures on the last page, jerked it impatiently from the machine.

She felt the slow progress of the office clock. From her desk in the San Francisco office of the A. A. Healey Steamship company, she could look out of the side window, see over the roof of the Dollar building, to a rectangle of leaden sky and sea.

On the gray water the ferries, like fat ducks, bobbed busily back and forth. The fat white one just going out would be the 4:45. Some girls were lucky enough to get that and some were lucky if they got the 5:15.

She glanced through the half-open door into Mr. Bennet's office. She could see his feet, neatly polished, well shod, large feet, pressed comfortably on the blotter pad of his desk.

There he was, wool-gathering as usual. Feet on the desk, doing nothing. Or planning some fool thing to send a long report about, to this home office in Seattle.

The times she'd torn out of that building without even stopping to powder her nose, run every inch of the way to the ferry and been practically speechless until the boat she'd caught by the skin of her teeth was half-way across the bay.

Worse yet, the times she hadn't caught it. The times she'd seen the gate slammed in her face, and had to wait for the next one. All because of a silly letter or wire or something that could just as well have been dictated at noon.

That's all a boss cares for you.

Well, Bennet wouldn't keep her late tonight. Not if she knew it.

Carefully she slipped notebook and pencils into top, left-hand drawer. Cautiously she tiptoed to the mirrored cabinet over the wash basin near the door of the outer office. Looked with interest, but without approval. Added powder, pulled a blue beret over dark, slightly curling short hair.

Her eyes were dark-circled. That came of trying to have a little fun on weekends and evenings, and having to get the 8:10 every morning. That's what you get for living home, and commuting.

If the folks would just move to San Francisco.

A vision of herself waking in a comfortable, steam-heated apartment, ten minutes' walk from the office, flitted across her mind.

And then she saw Ma trying to cook in a kitchenette, and Dad snoozing on the Chesterfield. And what would become of Aunt Willie, who might hang on to her job in the Park Bakery a while longer, but could certainly never find a brand-new job in San Francisco? And Aunt Willie's old dog, Tootsie? And what would Ma do without the sewing machine, and the washing machine, and there were all Dad's tools in the basement...

Something like a sigh escaped Mary Shannon. For a moment she had forgotten the 5 o'clock whistles and the necessity of appearing hatted and coated, ready to close the typewriter desk before Mr. Bennet could ask her to take another letter.

"Oh, Miss Shannon—" There it was. Bennet's voice. Abrupt. Managerial. Pretending not to know it was late.
